LAWLESSNESS IN CLARE

MR. LYNCH AND NATIONALIST UNITY.

IRISH RECONSTRUCTION.

During the debate on the Government's proposals for the reconstruction of Ireland last night, Mr. Lynch emphasized the importance of the Nationalist Party in the reconstruction of Ireland. He said that he wished the wonderful unity of the present leaders of the Irish Party and the Nationalist Party would be maintained. Mr. Lynch was called to the front and welcomed by the members of the Nationalist Party. He then addressed the House and said that he was a member of the Nationalist Party and that he was a member of the Nationalist Party. He then addressed the House and said that he was a member of the Nationalist Party and that he was a member of the Nationalist Party.

THE MAIL BOAT SERVICE.

8, Lower Abbey street, Dublin.
March 10th, 1918.

Dear Sir,

—While crossing from Holyhead to Kingstown I could not resist leaving the vessel to be wrecked.

These are loaded on old-fashioned boats, and the crew are not trained to save lives. They are not even trained to save the cargo. They are not even trained to save the vessel.

It is a pity that the crew are not trained to save lives. It is a pity that the crew are not trained to save the cargo. It is a pity that the crew are not trained to save the vessel.

In the event of a vessel being torpedoed, almost certain that some of the lifeboats will be damaged.

The vessel will probably be wrecked on the rocks.

Experience will know, it is quite impossible to save lives.

In the event of an accident, only a very few will survive.

To improve matters, it would be better to have a lifeboat on each vessel.

It is a pity that the crew are not trained to save lives. It is a pity that the crew are not trained to save the cargo. It is a pity that the crew are not trained to save the vessel.

Yours faithfully,
J. J. J.
